'Seahorsing' Around Before Harbor Days

By Jean Perry

There's a sense of excitement in Mattapoisett during the week of Harbor Days each year. On Saturday, the tent was up at Shipyard Park, and tables and chairs were still stacked, waiting for someone to set them up for their first use.

The Aardvark was out and about town this weekend waving at passersby, strolling through Shipyard Park, and stopping by to say hello to Salty the Seahorse and to 'seahorse around' and frolic in Dunseith Park,

The Rochester Police Department submitted this photo of the gifts of gratitude officers received on Friday from local residents showing their support after the Dallas tragedy on Thursday.

On the Cover: The Wanderer Aardvark is out and about in anticipation of the weekend Harbor Days events at Shipyard Park in Mattapoisett. On Saturday, he was seen hanging out with another famous Mattapoisett resident, Salty the Seahorse. This year, The Wanderer will have its own booth at Harbor Days, with intermittent appearances by the Aardvark himself. Photo by Jean Perry excited about Harbor Days, especially since he will finally get his chance to experience the splendor of Harbor Days for himself instead of just reading about it in The Wanderer. The Aardvark this year will be making intermittent appearances throughout the weekend during Harbor days (weather permitting, of course, since aardvarks hate hot weather).

This year, all of us at The Wanderer will also have the chance to join in on the fun instead of just doing what we always do, 'wandering' around looking for that great shot and taking notes about all the fun everybody else is having.

The Wanderer will have its own booth at the Harbor Days craft fair this Saturday and Sunday, July 16-17, from 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. Come by and spin The Wanderer 'Wheel of Fortune' we will have set up and win

The Mattapoisett purse is an original design by Mattapoisett native Gladys Ellis who taught the art form for decades in Mattapoisett. Elise Coyne of Rochester made this purse when she was a student of Ellis' in 1984. Photo by Marilou Newell

The Mattapoisett Purse

By Marilou Newell

What makes a small woven basket worth thousands of dollars?

Anyone who has ever watched Antiques Roadshow might quickly answer "the age of the piece." But in the case of a small handcrafted basket from Mattapoisett, the answer would be "time, intricacy, uniqueness, and beauty."

Gladys Ellis was a well-known Mattapoisett artisan who worked in the medium of pine needles, raffia, and ivory. Ellis not only perfected the making of Nantucket baskets, which have a very long history dating back to the 1800s, she also invented a newer style so painstakingly involved they would take months, if not years to complete. She called her creation the Mattapoisett purse.

For decades, Ellis held classes in her home at 87

North Street. Pat Goss of Mattapoisett said, "She was a great teacher, a great lady." Goss described Ellis as a perfectionist who guided her students towards their own level of perfection.

Primarily self-taught, Ellis worked tirelessly on her craft and became the teacher many students wished to study under. There was always a waiting list of eager women.

"She always had a full class," said Bonnie Silverstein of Dartmouth and Maine. "I got on a waiting list, and when one of her summer students left for the winter, I took her place." When winter ended, Silverstein lamented at having to leave so the summer student could return.

"I studied with her, oh golly, for probably fifteen or twenty years," said Nancy Snigger of Freetown. She learned about Ellis' classes from a craft supplier. Snigger wrote to Ellis and was subsequently admitted to the class. "There were lots of girls she was teaching," Snigger said, adding that many became lifelong students of the art of basket making.

Ellis would become widely acclaimed for the Mattapoissett purses she designed and created. The process was long and very precise, her former students all attested. Using the long nettles of southern pine trees coiled with raffia, the process included wrapping raffia tightly around a metal form to create lace-like exterior detailing. These decorative elements gave the purses a complexity not included in any other style of basket making. Add to this an oval of ivory expertly carved using scrimshaw techniques affixed to the clamshell hinged top, and you begin to appreciate what Ellis was doing: making masterpieces.

An admirer of Ellis' work and also a basket maker, Melissa Abbot of Gloucester Woman Baskets and Supplies wrote, "My friend told me her mother had given her a basket she made ... her mother had been a student of Gladys Ellis ... it was called a Mattapoissett purse ... it was as hard as wood and as light as a feather..."

Rochester resident Elise Coyne said, "I had to wait two years to get into Gladys' class." The Mattapoissett purse she created in 1984 while studying with Ellis is used for special occasions only, she said. Coyne did her own scrimshaw design on the oval insert, a picture of the Bird Island lighthouse, a magnificent rendering done freehand. "It's not perfect, but it's me," she said. Ellis advised Coyne at the time to insure the piece for $1,000.

Mattapoissett resident Lois Ennis is one of Ellis' many family members living in the area. Ennis said of her aunt, "There wasn't anything she couldn't put her hand to." She said Ellis also taught at universities. "She held classes just for family because you couldn't get into her class otherwise," Ennis shared. Of her many talents, Ennis said, Ellis was also a self-taught seamstress.

Another student, Roxanne Bungert of Mattapoissett, said she studied with Ellis during the '80s until Ellis' passing in 2011. Bungert said she once asked Ellis, "How does it feel to be a legend in your own time?" after several media outlets published stories about her Mattapoissett purses. "She just smiled; she was humble," Bungert said. Bungert described Ellis as very patient. "She'd lead you every step of the way."

Silverstein knew that the Boston Museum of Fine Arts had acquired one of Ellis' baskets for their collection, paying a rumored $35,000. When asked about that sum, she responded, "I'm not surprised at all.... Some of those baskets took years to complete, and she did all her own scrimshaw too," she said.

Silverstein reported that it was her brother-in-law who had commissioned the purse now at the MFA. "It was a gift to his wife," she said. When Silverstein's wife passed away, his daughter, Suzanne Wise, inherited the purse.

Calls to the MFA to confirm the basket's value of $35,000 went unreturned.

Ellis' energy and creativity, keen eye for detail, and artistic talent are memories shared by dozens of women in the area. Now one of her masterpieces will be forever preserved at the MFA.

"She knew they were valuable," Coyne said, adding, "She was quite proud of them."

Ellis passed away on January 9, 2011 at the age of 94. Born in New Bedford, she lived her entire life in Mattapoissett.

The Plimpton Effect

This Mattapoisett Life

By Marilou Newell

As I mounted my bike to head out on the Triathlon course for the second leg of the race, it occurred to me that I was like George Plimpton. Plimpton, highly respected writer and world-class amateur athlete, attempted very difficult sports activities. It didn't matter that he couldn't do very well whatever the challenge was, it only mattered that he tried and survived. Of course, he wrote about these great adventures becoming rich and famous. My goal was less grand. I simply wanted to finish.

This quest to try and be an athlete really began last summer when I was covering the annual Lions Club Triathlon for The Wanderer.

I watched as individuals and relay teams swam, biked, and ran. Participants of all ages were smiling and laughing. The excitement was palpable and with the music pouring out from loud speakers, there was a party atmosphere.

Giving voice to my desire to be a triathlon participant in early April, I'd say things like, "...if I could only find someone to do the swimming..." and "...if I could only find someone to do the biking." The silence at that point was deafening. Not a lot of takers at the councils on aging where I hang out. Go figure.

But somewhere along the way, my aerobics instructor Ellie Mae Higgins heard me and responded, "How far is the swim?" Her fate was sealed in that moment.

Ellie is an amazing woman who teaches ladies of a certain age how to move, how to exercise, how to prevent falls, how to stay strong. After decades of sitting on my butt in what I like to call "corporate hell," once retired I joined one of her classes. After nearly three years of squats, twists, and power lifting 3-pound weights, I believed I could ride a bike 10 miles followed by speed walking 3 miles.

There was one hitch – I hadn't been on my bike in nearly 17 years. Once upon a time, I'd ride to Onset or New Bedford with confidence. But bone spurs in my neck and a career that found me traveling more frequently, coupled with domestic demands of caring for an elderly father and infant granddaughter, didn't leave much time to ride a bike. Now, at the age of 65 with time to train, I would take on this challenge.

I got the bike tuned-up and modified and began the arduous process of training. First 3 miles, then 8 miles, then 12 miles. I was getting stronger.

In the meantime, Ellie was doing some training at the gym. She felt confident that she could complete the quarter-mile swim, saying, "I won't be fast, but I'll finish." I was saying the same thing.

Unlike Mr. Plimpton, I wasn't challenging myself so I could get a story and make a load of cash by writing a book about the experience. Nah, that would be too easy. I was going to do this because I wanted to. I was, after all, channeling my inner athlete, Plimpton style. "Not bad," I thought.

Besides the goal of simply finishing what Ellie and I started, I didn't want to fall. Grade school science class came to mind, specifically Newton's first law of motion: a body in motion stays in motion unless an external force is applied. Yes, please let me stay vertical and not break a hip!

The moment of truth had arrived.

Ellie was in and out of the water in eight minutes flat. What a machine! It took us 1 minute and 40 seconds to transition, and then I was off and riding.

Having done the course over the previous weeks, I knew what they meant when they talked about the uplands of the Mattapoisett River Valley. From Water Street to Wolf Island Road, the topography of the land rises. Not in an Everest-like manner, but up nonetheless.

I pumped with every fiber of my being. I looked forward to coasting back into the village but got swept up in the illusion that I really was an athlete and kept on pumping. I flew around corners like a bat out of hell. My thighs were pistons. I was no longer 65, I was 15. The 10 miles took me 54 minutes and 46 seconds. All right, I am 65.

I dismounted back at the beach, transitioning to the road race in 1 minute 35 seconds. I hit my stride

Our supportive crew of ladies from the COA exercise classes was there to congratulate us. Their beaming faces meant everything in that moment. I thanked them as my loving husband's strong arms held me up. The 'Yes We Can Duo' came in dead last, but we finished. It was the thrill of victory, not the agony of defeat. Raccoon Tests Positive for Rabies

By Jean Perry

A raccoon that attacked a resident in Mattapoisett on Friday, July 8, subsequently tested positive for rabies on Monday.

Animal Control Officer Kathy Massey, assisted by Kelly Massey, Fairhaven ACO, captured the raccoon after a long chase that started at the Mattapoisett Library where a large group of children was ushered inside for safety, and led the animal control officers through the village and finally up a tree on the corner of Beacon Street and Marion Road, but not before the creature attacked a resident out gardening in her yard.

"That's the first time I've ever seen a raccoon act like that," said Kathy Massey during a Monday phone conversation.

How she described what happened on Friday was nothing less than Kafkaesque.

"We didn't know where this thing went," said Massey. "But it was acting sick.... Lethargic, dopey."

And unless it is springtime and the raccoon is looking for food to feed its young, the raccoon wasn't supposed to be out walking about in broad daylight.

"I said, there's something wrong with this thing," Massey said. It looked scraggly and sickly. "It was the eyes..." She said she knew the raccoon was rabid just by looking into its eyes that fluttered and shifted back and forth like.

Massey heard a woman scream from her yard and followed the sound to where she witnessed the raccoon attacking the woman and then running off. The woman was stunned and bleeding from her wounds.

"On her inner leg, she had the perfect mark of a raccoon print that clawed straight down her leg," as Massey described it. The woman immediately began treatment for rabies. It was apparent that the animal was rabid, said Massey.

The chase resumed and led Massey to a tree not too far from the attack.

For the record, said Massey, regardless of reports that she "climbed" up the tree to capture the violent and diseased creature, there was no tree climbing.

"I went up a ladder and looked into the tree," said Massey. "Please let people know I did not climb a tree."

Once captured after what Massey said felt like an hours-long pursuit, the raccoon was euthanized and the head sent to a lab in Jamaica Plain and tested for rabies. The results were indeed positive.

"Sometimes you can tell just by looking at them," said Massey. "I'll just never forget they eyes. Squiggly, like she's not even there...."

outpouring of emotional support from the residents of their towns in light of the Dallas tragedy that happened on Thursday, July 7, when a lone sniper assassinated five officers during a protest of the police-involved shootings of two African American citizens in Minnesota and Louisiana over the past week.

Since Friday, officers of the Mattapoissett, Marion, and Rochester Police Departments have been the recipients of an outburst of support from citizens in the form of cards, letters, and words of 'thanks,' and even kind gestures such as delivering pizza, sweets, baked goods, and homemade meals to the police stations as a way to show their appreciation.

in to shake the guys' hands," said Mattapoisett Police Chief Mary Lyons. "Some gave cards thanking us ... or expressing outrage over [the Dallas events]. It is a very nice feeling."

Since Friday and throughout the weekend, Rochester Police Chief Paul Magee said he and his staff have seen an enormous demonstration of support from residents, with parents bringing their kids into the station to deliver handmade cards of gratitude, as well as home baked cookies, cupcakes, and boxes of pizza.

"On Friday, myself and many other officers were approached by people to say 'thank you' and show their support during this difficult time," said Chief Magee. "I'd be lying if I said everything going on right now wasn't discouraging because it is. But the support [we got] from people is very positive. It's fantastic. It's something that doesn't happen all the time."

Marion residents have also turned out to show their support of the Marion Police Department. Police Chief Lincoln Miller said someone dropped by with a thank you card and a gift certificate to Dunkin' Donuts, and many in the community have approached him and his officers to express their support.

"It's a very tough situation," said Chief Miller. "The [Dallas] officers there were protecting the protestors. It was a peaceful protest, but once the shooting started you saw those officers rush to protect those people, running towards the gunfire. That just speaks volumes for the people that are in this profession.”

Magee said in Rochester there is always a lot of support from residents for the local police, but during this time the support is even more evident.

“You don’t always hear it, but you know it’s there,” said Magee. “I know the staff here is greatly appreciative. It’s very nice. It keeps you positive.”

All around the three towns, say the chiefs, people are walking up to them and thanking them for their service.

“It’s a nice feeling,” said Lyons. “Those poor five officers that didn’t make it home after work that night.... Our hearts go out to them.”

Marion Celebrates New Fleet of Electric Cars

By Jean Perry

Monday, July 11 was a big day for Marion – and the environment one could add – when three brand new all-electric cars were delivered to the Marion Town House with a number of town officials eagerly awaiting their arrival.

Thanks to a number of state and federal grants that the Marion Energy Management Committee pursued over the past few months, the town has acquired the new 2015 BMW i3 electric cars at practically no expense to the town – just $203 each – for the 36-month lease.

The town received $7,500 for each vehicle, along with $10,500 for charging stations, from the State’s MASSEVIP Fleet program, plus another $7,500 per vehicle in federal tax credits, totaling $55,000 in grant funding.

The i3s replace the Crown Victorias the various town departments currently use, which are rated at 18 miles per gallon when new. During the three-year lease, the i3s will operate on average, at a cost of $1,056 as opposed to the Crown Vics at $3,888, saving the town $2,832 in fuel alone.

The Board of Health, Department of Public Works, and Council on Aging will use the three new electric cars.

“The COA with its Meals on Wheels Programs is currently using their big vans and travel about 25 to 30 miles a day,” said Board of Selectmen Chairman Jody Dickerson. “So it makes sense. It makes a lot of sense.”

There are two charging stations right now in Marion, one at the Town House and one at the Atlantis Avenue building, where the Department of Recreation keeps its all-electric Nissan Leaf acquired earlier this year. Locations for additional charging stations are still being planned, but will most likely be located at the Town House, the wastewater treatment plant, and possibly one other location.

Also, the charging stations are open to the public as a way for the town to promote electric vehicle adoption by town residents and employees. The charging stations are open to the public during business hours and, as of today, are free to use.

The BMW dealership offered the lowest quote when the town went out to bid to purchase the new electric cars, less expensive this time than the Nissan Leaf. The i3s can travel up to 100 miles of city driving and average about 70 miles on the highway. They are made from 100% recyclable materials, with interior parts made from recycled fabric and plastic bottles.

“Everything about this vehicle is recyclable,” said BMW dealership representative Dustin Aliano. Even the factories where the car is made are run on renewable energy sources – no fossil fuels, according to Aliano.

Energy Management Committee members Norm Hills and Jennifer Francis were present to welcome the new fleet of electric cars and inspect them, admiring their design and practicality. Town Administrator Paul Dawson and Selectman Dickerson were also outside the Town House for the cars' delivery.

"You guys were very proactive," said Evan Melillo to Hills and Francis, remarking on how fast the Energy Management Committee acted to secure the grants. Melillo is the assistant to the town manager of Dartmouth, who assisted the Town of Marion in acquiring the vehicles after Dartmouth did the same.

"We just moved very quickly," replied Francis.

Hollywood Resident Opposes Aquaculture Site

Marion Board of Selectmen

Marilou Newell

"I beg to differ," stated James Spader, Marion resident and well-known Hollywood actor when the public comment phase of the hearing of Shea Doonan's application for an aquaculture license off Meadow Island was opened.

Doonan said that he had searched throughout the coastline of Marion for the right location to place an aquaculture operation and none was better than waters off Meadow Island.

"I own Meadow Island," Spader told the Marion

Board of Selectmen on the night of July 12. "We've enjoyed Meadow Island, paid taxes on it for decades," he continued, "...this will impact Meadow Island."

Spader told the board that navigation, along with swimming and small boat recreation, will be affected by having an industrial operation between Meadow Island and Planting Island. He went on to say that Marion would not positively benefit from having an aquaculture industry in this sensitive location.

"I look at the community, and I wonder how this project enhances the community in any way," he said. Spader said that fish farming has been proven to have a negative impact on the environment.

Then his comments became more personal.

"We owned the island so it could look like it does forever." Speaking of the proposed project he said, "In the morning, I've got to wake up and look at that all day and all night and so will all the rest of the people in that cove." Spader added, "I'm very, very concerned about this."

He told the selectmen that Marion was about housing, living, boating and 30 minutes prior to the meeting, "I was staring at this spot watching racing."

Spader was reminded that the harbor and waterways do not belong to Marion but to the Commonwealth for the use of all persons. Doonan said, "There will be navigational issues, but it will be placed closer to Planting Island well north of the channel."

Harbormaster Isaac Perry said, "It will have an impact on navigation, but it is a good compromise."

Resident Bill Washburn asked, "What income does Marion get out of this?" Perry replied, "Twelve dollars and fifty cents," the cost of a permit fee – costs established by the state.

"Marine Fisheries has Okayed it, then it goes to the DEP and has to run the gamut, Army Corps of Engineers and Natural Heritage," said Perry.

Selectman Stephen Cushing told Spader, "This is step one in a fairly long process, not a done deal."

"I do have some concerns about navigation," said Chairman Jody Dickerson.

Doonan responded, "I looked everywhere. It was the one place where I could put this."

Spader asked again, "What can it bring to the greater community? I don't think there's a burden on the town to bring in industry.... The town has the power to say no," he concluded.

Town Counsel John Witten said, "There's always an appeals process." He suggested the board could wait to make their decision.

"I don't think it's the best location," said Dickerson.

Cushing said, "I don't think it detracts from boating. We have to make a decision based on fact." He was in favor of allowing the application to move through the process to the next step, involving various state agency approvals.

With only two members present for the hearing, the selectmen cast votes that cancelled each other out. It was decided that a new hearing would be held on August 16 at 7:05 pm, at which time Selectmen Steve Gonsalves would be available to hear the new application and assist in rendering a decision.

Another matter garnering most of the evening's meeting time was Ladd Thorne's appeal of the harbormaster's revocation of his mooring permit.

Arthur Kreiger of Anderson Kreiger represented Thorne while Witten represented the interests of the town.

Kreiger laid out a chronology of events that ultimately lead to Thorne becoming delinquent in paying the mooring fee, setting in motion the revocation of his permit. Kreiger pointed to the town's not following their own regulations by sending the second notice regular mail versus the established certified mail.

Perry said he had inquired at town hall and learned that about five years ago the town stopped using certified mail due to costs.

Kreiger said that several domestic matters within the Thornes' home interfered with their timely response and also pointed to the fact that the town had used an incorrect address for at least one of the mailings, if not more.

Perry defended his action by saying that the Thornes missed the appeals date, that there are 10 other permit holders in the same situation as the Thornes, and that he needed to proceed following the town's protocol in fairness to all concerned.

Once again, the two sitting selectmen were not in harmony but due to procedures in how the votes could be cast, the decision was not to reinstate Thorne's permit. They did agree to allow Thorne to keep his boat on the mooring until August 1, giving Kreiger time to appeal their decision to the Department of Environmental Protection.

Before the hearing was closed, Perry added, "One of the Thornes' sons is third on the mooring waiting list," indicating that the family would have a mooring rather soon even with the loss of the one in question.

The next meeting of the Marion Board of Selectmen is scheduled for August 16 at 7:00 pm at the Marion Town House.

Smith suggested only one sign be hung and the other be kept as a back-up, all three selectmen agreed.

Selectman Brad Morse suggested hanging one at the entrance to the Town Forest by Old Colony RVTHS, which was approved by the two other selectmen.

Topping the agenda that night was conservation, with Conservation Agent Laurell Farinon on hand to present selectmen with copies of the newly revised second edition of the town's Explore Rochester guide to Rochester's open spaces and the walking trails featured at each property.

As Farinon pointed out, the first edition was released back in 2014 and, since then, three new properties have been added, and the name of the Olde Field Farm property was renamed the Shoolman Preserve.

"We applied for a grant from A.D. Makepeace," said Farinon, which helped fund the revised edition.

Other changes to the guide include a general layout change, as well as a spiral binding that Farinon called "more user-friendly."

Copies of the latest edition of the Explore Rochester guide are available at the Town Hall Annex, and the Rochester Land Trust will have them available during the Rochester Country Fair.

In other matters, the board approved the appointment of Jana Cavanaugh back to the Board of Assessors. Cavanaugh retired from the board back in early June at the same time she retired from her position as a teacher at Rochester Memorial School in order to receive her pension. She has now been reappointed this new fiscal year and will serve on the board of Assessors until April of 2017 when she will have to run for election.

This was the first Board of Selectmen meeting for new Town Administrator / CFO Suzanne Szyndlar, currently the part-time accountant for the Towns of Rochester and Mattapoisett.

Szyndlar is the first female town administrator in the Town of Rochester since the position was first created.

The next meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen is scheduled for July 25 at 7:00 pm at the Rochester Town Hall.

Board Bends to Help Couple's Conundrum

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

It isn't often that an applicant breaks out in tears during a meeting of the Rochester Planning Board, but after the conflicting information that Kristina and Ryan Bacchiocchi say they got from town counsel, the Planning Board, and Building Commissioner Ray Pickles, Ms. Bacchiocchi couldn't hide her frustration on July 12.

The couple applied for a building permit for a 600-foot addition to the home they recently purchased in order to expand their home daycare business; however, their decision to also add an additional parking area for the business came with the requirement of a site plan review, and site plan review bylaws state that building permits come after site plan approval. Thus, contrary to what the couple said Town Counsel Blair Bailey told them, they could not start building until the Planning Board site plan review process was complete.

And there were still certain details the board needed marked on the plans before they could move towards approval, including the proper signatures and the engineer's analysis of stormwater-related matters. The couple also still had conflicting driveway surface materials on the plan, which the board asked the applicants to specify.

"It might seem like a simple driveway, but it's an entrance to a parking lot," said Chairman Arnold Johnson.

Ms. Bacchiocchi said that before they even purchased the property, they turned to the town for information on the process and were confident they could do it. Now, she said, it seems as though the information has changed.

"I need to open [the business]. I can't do this," said Ms. Bacchiocchi, getting visually emotional. "If they don't start building this week, it takes time to build. It's the middle of July.... I need the next six weeks to build that structure."

The board expressed sympathy, but Johnson told her there was nothing the board could do, and they could not give her advice on the legal aspects of the matter. Only Town Counsel Bailey could do that.

Bacchiocchi asked the board if it could write a letter to Buckles to issue the building permit, but Johnson said the board could not, as per the bylaw.

"I know you guys are frustrated," said Johnson. He urged Bacchiocchi to speak with Bailey about whether they could proceed towards the building permit or not, since the board's hands were tied in that respect. If the Bacchiocchis were lucky, perhaps Bailey will give them the go ahead. "I don't think the Planning Board is going to stand in the way of that, but on the other hand, if he says 'no,' then you still need to proceed with this."

As Bacchiocchi continued to release her frustration, along with some tears she could not hold back, the board progressed inch by inch towards assisting the couple as much as they could without overstepping it.

Johnson suggested the board could have a draft decision for approval made for the next meeting, cautioning the couple that they would need to have everything the board needed submitted in time, but the board still does not usually approve decisions on the same night the draft is presented.

Board member John DeMaggio said he would have no problem holding a special meeting next week to review the draft and then subsequently approve it during the next regularly scheduled meeting, and the other board members agreed to the idea.

"I thank you guys for even saying that," said Bacchiocchi.

"The Planning Board probably wouldn't stand in the way for something this simple," said Johnson.

The board agreed to hold a one-item agenda special meeting solely for the Bacchiocchis on July 19 at 7:00 pm, and the couple left grateful.

Oops, though. The board was so eager to assist the Bacchiocchis that they forgot to call for abutters before continuing the public hearing. One gentleman in the room expressed that he had hoped to speak up about stormwater runoff concerns he had about the driveway, but the couple had already left so no further comments could be made.

Johnson urged him to speak with Highway Surveyor Jeff Eldridge about his concerns in the meantime.

In other matters, the board voted to officially accept the withdrawal without prejudice of Renewable Generation, LLC's special permit application to build a solar farm off New Bedford Road in the center of town.

Also, the board approved the proposed solar farm for Meadowatt, LLC on Route 105, Marion Road, granting the project a Special Permit, Scenic Highway Special Permit, and a Groundwater Protection District Special Permit.

The public hearing for Dale and Laura Briggs for the construction of a 7,500 square-foot metal commercial building at a site off Cranberry Highway was discussed and then continued until the next regular meeting of the posed questions to engineer David Davignon of N. Douglas Schneider & Associates regarding whether or not the plan met all required FEMA regulations. Now, Davignon was back with a new plan.

Referring to a FEMA bulletin, Davignon said, "We've removed the riprap stones around the filled embankment." Continuing, he said, "The slope has been reduced, the fill has been reduced, no parking is planned under the home, there will not be a concrete pad...." He also said that salt-tolerant grasses were planned as part of the wetlands remediation the construction will mandate.

"We are not going to the [Zoning] Board of Appeals," Davignon told the commission. He said that an appeal to the ZBA based on a hardship would most likely not be granted. "We believe we have before you a FEMA-compliant plan," he concluded.

Acting Chairman Mike King opened the hearing to public comments with Regina McIntyre, 57 Angelica Avenue, speaking first.

"For years, that has been just beautiful," said McIntyre. "I have a hard time seeing a home built there." She said she understood that the applicants had a right to try and build on property they owned, but lamented the loss of open land to an ocean view.

The chairman then recognized Paul Osenkowski, 8 Oaklawn Avenue.

"My concerns are local, not Beacon Hill or Washington ... I'm bothered by the fact that the board is totally impotent to protect the town ... I think it's your job to say NO ... it's time to stand up and say NO!" Osenkowski said that homes were being built that endangered wetlands including shellfish locations and that it was "time that Mattapoisett stands up."

King responded, "I share your concerns, but in the absence of a bylaw, our hands are tied. There's not much we can do." He then closed the public hearing, and the commission voted to issue an Order of Conditions that included the applicant paying for a wetlands scientist to monitor remediation and track growth for two years.

An after-the-fact Notice of Intent, which had also been continued, reached a conclusion when William Macropoulos, 12 Howard Beach, attended the hearing represented by Davignon in the matter of a jetty constructed beyond permitted lines of limitation. The commission had offered Macropoulos mitigation in the form of paying for shellfish seed, a payment directly to the town versus the state.

Davignon said Macropoulos had agreed to the $750 payment, contingent upon his receipt of a waterways license. King said he hoped that common sense would prevail with the other governmental agencies. The commission then settled the matter by issuing an Order of Conditions.

William Fredericks, 30 Holly Woods Road, received an Order Conditions for the construction of a new driveway, but was asked to allow vegetation that had been removed in a jurisdictional area to return naturally with no further cutting in that area.

Returning to the commission for an informal discussion were attorneys representing the Henderson family of Bay View Avenue and the developers of lots on Grand View Avenue. The years-long dispute was over what the Hendersons believe was incomplete and damaging stormwater planning; plans that they claim should have been resolved by the developer were discussed.

Shepard Johnson represented the developers, while Sandford Matathia represented the Hendersons. The two attorneys said that their clients would be submitting new Notices of Intent and that a plan to "de-link" the two properties from the single Order of Conditions that had been issued years ago. The attorneys said that by separating the two properties, the Hendersons could then get the modifications that would improve environmental conditions on their property. The proposed concept seemed agreeable to the commission.

Other matters handled were July 25 continuances for Forrest Neal, 16 Brandt Island Road, for shed placement; Dennis Arsenault, Snow Fields Road, for wetlands delineation; and Robert Gauvin, 5 Seabreeze Lane, for a Certificate of Compliance.

Before closing out the evening, the commission discussed applicants for the open seats on their board. Chapman Dickerson met briefly with the commission to discuss his desire to be considered for the Conservation Commission.

Mattapoisett," he said. "I'm baffled about how they are building on some of these properties. I'm not against growth, but..."

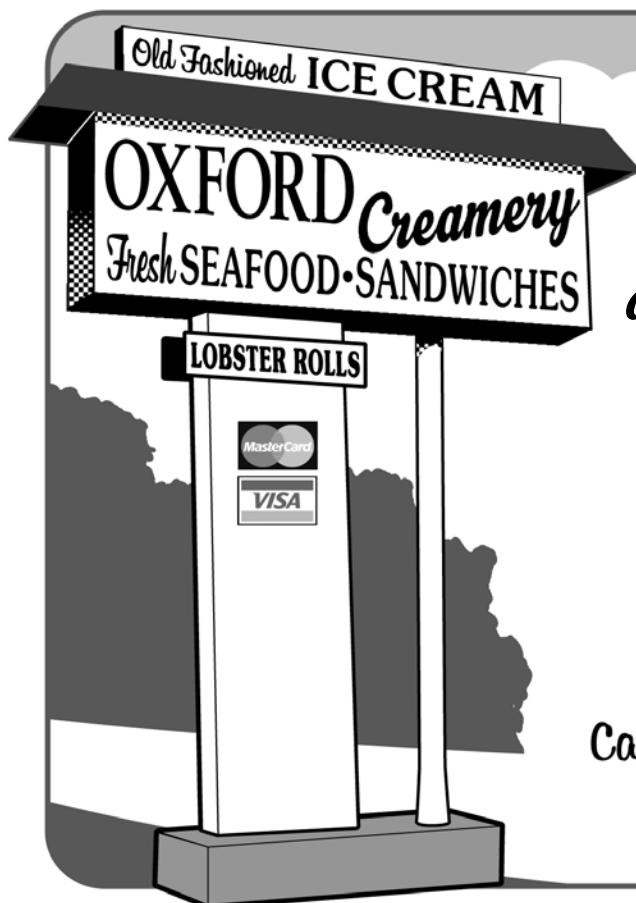

King told Dickerson that the commission makes recommendations to the Board of Selectmen, but that the selectmen make the final decisions.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission is scheduled for July 25 at 6:30 pm in the town hall conference room.

with the albatross, penguin, and tern. Each one today is a specialized living proof of Darwin's theory of adaption of species to environment in waters all around the world. The cormorant, for example, is able to drink salt water and fly under water with elliptical wings and streamlined body with waterproof feathers and propelled by webbed feet.

Their population has increased dramatically since the use of DDT and other toxic chemicals was banned in 1970. Darwin, in research of the Galapagos Islands, was astonished to find the Pacific cormorant to be as flightless as the penguin. To this very day, in Japan they are trained to dive and retrieve their catch of fish for human consumption with gizzards tied and unable to swallow.

Buzzards Bay is a summer haven for the migratory cormorant with many miles of coastline and causeways, as my drawing connecting Sconticut Neck to West Island in Fairhaven demonstrates (viewable online). Boaters coming into port see them as sentinels standing on channel markers, guarding the mouths of harbors while loafing in the sunlight to dry and lubricate feathers from a gland above their tails, able to turn their necks practically 360 degrees.

Their nests are often elevated platforms in a tree near the water's edge where both parents incubate and feed the young with bits of fish regurgitated into their mouths. As incubation of each egg begins as soon as laid, hatching is spaced out creating a growing size difference. Due to nourishment competition, often as few as two chicks grow to maturity, Darwin's "survival of the fittest" at an early age.

Cormorants, like many other sea birds, congregate in large colonies at the same site for generations. Their gathering presence is rather invasive and discourages nesting of other birds. Their predation also interrupts reproduction, schooling, and spawning of alewife gizzard shad and yellow perch. Even more serious, cormorants are prone to carry a viral Newcastle disease. After protected by the Migratory Bird Act of 1918, an increasing necessity for population regulation control was approved as legal in 1999 to be federally activated by permit if applied by 24 eligible states, as well as recognized Native American tribes.

Our nearest living freshwater cousin to the cormorant locally is the common loon, although it migrates in winter to the ocean and turns a salty color. It is one of our oldest surviving creatures.

From Darwin's Origin Of Species, my conclusion is that access to underwater habitat food supply enabled their survival, even during planetary periods of terrestrial extinction. Now, my article and drawing of the cormorant is on literary record joining my other subjects such as the mountain lion, fisher, rattlesnake, turkey buzzard, and spider. Each was inspired by my educated Native American belief that every living thing on Earth is sacred, even the smallest blade of grass.

soliciting nominations for our 21st annual “Wanderer Keel Awards.” The yearly community service honor – which is presented to one Tri-Town resident from each of the three central towns in our circulation area – will be announced in our July 28 edition, and each winner will be the subject of a short feature highlighting their contributions to the local community. But The Wanderer needs your help in selecting these “unsung heroes.”

The requirements are simple. Nominees must be legal residents, for at least five years, of Mattapoisett, Marion or Rochester and must have contributed in some way to the overall benefit of the community – either directly to town residents, or indirectly through efforts in promoting town activities, or working to keep the wheels of local government well oiled. The only restriction is that these persons cannot benefit from their efforts in any other way – either financially or politically (hence, sitting elected officials are not eligible).

In doing this, we hope to applaud those who are rarely recognized for their countless hours of service and focus on the many people behind the scenes who remain otherwise anonymous, but provide crucial support to many town functions. Like the keel of a ship, which keeps the vessel from capsizing, the recipients of the Annual Wanderer Keel Award will be recognized for their stalwart efforts in keeping the community on an “even keel.”

Past recipients of this honor include:

Letters to the Editor

The views expressed in the "Letters to the Editor" column are not necessarily those of The Wanderer, its staff or advertisers. The Wanderer will gladly accept any and all correspondence relating to timely and pertinent issues in the great Marion, Mattapoisett and Rochester area, provided they include the author's name, address and phone number for verification. We cannot publish anonymous, unsigned or unconfirmed submissions. The Wanderer reserves the right to edit, condense and otherwise alter submissions for purposes of clarity and/or spacing considerations. The Wanderer may choose to not run letters that thank businesses, and The Wanderer has the right to edit letters to omit business names. The Wanderer also reserves the right to deny publication of any submitted correspondence.

To All Marion Residents:

The Marion Cemetery Commission recently met to review our policies and procedures, as well as review each cemetery for any issues that may have arisen. Maintenance has definitely become an issue and many shrubs are now overgrown and obscure the headstones. When this happens, the Commission reserves the right to prune or remove these overgrown shrubs. The once small spruces that families like to plant often become too large for the headstone. Each planting area cannot exceed the width of the headstone and only 12 inches out from it. Plastic flowers, pinwheels and ornaments will be removed. Bird feeders have also become a nuisance, staining neighboring headstones and are no longer allowed.

In addition, a $200 perpetual care fee has been approved as of July 1(not for plots purchased before this date). This is a one-time fee upon purchase of the plot (not per burial) in any of the town's cemeteries except the Point Road Memorial Forest, which has an endowment for this purchase. The Town has the responsibility for the care of its cemeteries, and when families are no longer around to care for gravesites, it falls to the town to do so. So we need this fee to cover those costs. We are also reviewing needed repair on older gravesites and will be getting estimates for that work. If you have any questions, please contact the Marion DPW. Thank you, Margie Baldwin, Helen Hills, James Lionberger, Joel Watters.

Margie Baldwin, Marion Cemetery Commission

How does chiropractic care help seniors?

Researchers for Topics in Clinical Chiropractic found that for seniors age 75 and over, "Chiropractic users were less likely to have been hospitalized, less likely to have used a nursing home, more likely to report a better health status, more likely to exercise vigorously, and more likely to be mobile in the community. In addition, they were less likely to use prescription drugs."

Further supporting this improvement in quality of life, a study published in the Journal of Manipulative and Physiological Therapeutics found that Medicare patients who had regular chiropractic care "reported making only half the annual number of visits to medical providers compared with the national average for people age 65 years and over."

Often seniors are told that their pain is due to arthritis or aging, and that there isn't much that can be done. Often, chiropractic care can help.

and one winner will be selected. Girls in grades 9-12 will compete for the title of Miss Apple Peach and one winner will be selected.

Miss Apple Peach and Jr. Miss Apple Peach will each receive a prize package including a crown, banner, cash award, photos, gift cards and other potential prizes. They will also begin a year filled with opportunities, appearances, meeting many new people and creating memories that same weekend when they appear in the Apple Peach Parade and Festival.

The current Miss Apple Peach, Kelsey Pereira, is 15 years old and will be a junior at Fairhaven High School in the fall. She plays volleyball for Coastal Volleyball, is an Honor Society Student and a competitive dancer with Center Stage Dance Studio.

Junior Miss Apple Peach, Victoria Kalisz, is 14 years old and will be a freshman at Fairhaven High School in the fall. She is part of the pop girl group, Sequence, a member of Voices in Time and the Cheryl McCormack competition dance team.

Both Kelsey and Victoria have had a busy year as the town's titleholders and were part of events such as the Halloween Parade, Christmas Lighting and, of course, the Apple Peach Festival and Parade as well as various other community events.

Pageant Director Holly Raposa notes "girls should get involved in the pageant because it is a good way to get involved in the town and go to different events and broaden their horizons." The pageant is also a wonderful learning experience for girls who may want to participate in other pageants. Several former Miss Apple Peach winners have gone on to hold local and state titles within the Miss America Program such as Miss New Bedford and Miss Rhode Island.

There will be an orientation for contestants in August as well as a photo shoot and rehearsals leading up to the pageant on September 9. Deadline for contestants is July 20 and Pageant Director Holly Raposa can be contacted at 508-742-7905, via email at pageant02743@gmail.com, or via the pageant's Facebook page.

MOVIE REVIEW

Chessboard

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

The Killing (1956). Starring Sterling Hayden and Timothy Carey. Directed by Stanley Kubrick. Running time: 85 minutes.

Here we have a heist film in which the most devastating image conceivable in the genre gets an explosion of laughter from even a small audience. Stanley Kubrick had made some documentary shorts and a couple of barely feature-length films he considered juvenilia (Fear and Desire and Killer's Kiss), but The Killing, which recently observed its 60th birthday, is widely agreed to be the first real Kubrick film — archly stylized, sardonic, gimlet-eyed, and richly entertaining into the bargain.

Told in a non-linear fashion — informing such later films as Reservoir Dogs, though Quentin Tarantino will insist he's not a Kubrick fan — The Killing hops around a heist at a race track, viewing the events from the perspective of various men involved. In truth, though, the effect isn't so much Rashomon as a dispassionate God's-eye view. As he would so many times afterward, Kubrick looks at the totality of the chessboard and dismisses the players as potzers — a term amusingly used in the film by wrestler Kola Kwariani, who used to frequent the same chess parlor Kubrick did.

The wrestler is there to create a diversion by starting a fight. He and several others, including milksop Elisha Cook Jr. and über-hipster Timothy Carey, have been hired by scowling mastermind Sterling Hayden (whose bottom lip pouts out farther the worse things get) to be little pieces of the puzzle. The goal: to walk away with $2 million from the track's coffers. Kubrick, who loved to sit back and laugh at the hubris of lesser men, lets us see all the planning, all the angles, and then mercilessly sweeps the chessboard.

As in most film noir, a dame holds the key to doom. Elisha Cook Jr. babbles about the plan to his disdainful wife Marie Windsor, who promptly turns around and presents her lover Vince Edwards with a counterplan to rub out her husband and make off with his cut of the take. But the Cook character is so detestably weak we almost don't blame Windsor for treating him so badly. (I can't recall who wrote it, but I swear I once read Cook described as someone who looked born to get slapped around.) So the femme fatale stuff here doesn't come off as misogynist; if anything, it reflects poorly on the man who falls for it. Potzer.

Perhaps even more here than in Kubrick's subsequent Paths of Glory, Timothy Carey bops into the picture on his own suave-hostile wavelength. When he's acting opposite Sterling Hayden — who reads his lines in the abrupt, manly cadence expected of actors before the Method really took hold in movies — Carey creates a split-screen, where he's in a Timothy Carey movie and Hayden is acting (strongly enough) in a regular '50s film. Carey had a grimacing Kabuki quality that Kubrick seemed to love, and seemed to chase in all his films thereafter, either from the leads or from supporting players.

Irony abounds; fate throws in elements that these potzers can't account for — a horseshoe, a lapdog. But The Killing is too hip to salute the old saw "Crime doesn't pay" or even "There's no honor among thieves." Kubrick doesn't truly seem to care about the heist or its participants. It's the design, the amused tone of bleakness, that he's really after. There's a laughably overexplicit Captain Obvious narration — "Ten minutes later he bought the largest suitcase he could find," we hear over footage of Sterling Hayden toting a large suitcase. The studio demanded narration to clarify the back-and-forth temporal movement for the audience (the potzers); Kubrick hated it, and probably strove to make it as contemptuously lame as possible. The narration doesn't hurt things; it becomes white noise, as does the plot itself. The point of the film becomes the little mordant flicks of the brush, like a death scene played out next to a bleating caged parrot. "Watch it there! Watch out!" it cackles uselessly.

The Killing may be the greatest of American heist films because it bursts the genre to the point of existentialism. Whatever you work towards or aspire to, Kubrick says, here and most everywhere else, will dance out of your reach; or you'll get it, but not how you expect. And Kubrick says this in an icily merry mood, a wised-up chess master making films about dumb pawns and expecting you to keep up. Because you're not a potzer like them, are you?

the dramatic breakwater at Sakonnet Point, RI. Also new this year, a 10-mile Family Ride entirely on the Shining Sea Bikeway in Falmouth – an easy way to let the whole family get in on the fun of “biking for clean water.” These new routes are in addition to the traditional 75-mile route starting in Westport or the 35-mile route that starts in Rochester. All the routes end with a party in Woods Hole.

Whether you’re an avid cyclist or a more casual rider, you’ll enjoy the Ride’s gorgeous scenery through coastal villages, farmlands, working waterfront, and colorful cranberry bogs. Cyclists ages 12 and over are welcome to sign up. Many riders also form teams with their friends and families. Together, they put their cycling skills to work to raise thousands of dollars for Buzzards Bay. With a lunch stop, water and snack stations along the course, and on-the-road repair technicians available at call, all riders can feel safe and supported.

Each rider raises a minimum of $300, but many participants set loftier fundraising goals. All funds go directly to programs and projects that protect land and clean water around Buzzards Bay. Prizes go to the riders and teams that raise the most money as well as the winners in new categories including “Best Team Outfit” and “Most Riders.”

Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

I found a baby bird on the ground. I picked it up to see if it was ok, but now I've heard that I can't put it back in the nest because I touched it. What do i do?

Leave it there! Coming into the summer months, baby birds fall out of or outgrow the nest before they can even fly. It is not true that the mother can smell the scent of a human and will not take it back. Birds have a relatively poor sense of smell and will not be able to tell if the baby has been handled.

If the bird is starting to fly, the mother will be around to feed the baby. This is normal. The biggest threat is cats, so keep your cat indoors until the bird is gone.

Jo Pannell, Chairman of the Mattapoisett Historical Commission, has been at the forefront of this project for the last six years. Pannell says 149 bricks have been placed during that time, courtesy of the Mattapoisett Highway Department. They construct a wooden frame, flush with the ground and insert the bricks inside. The cost of each brick is $55. Each brick may be inscribed with up to three lines, each line containing no more than 16 letters per line, including spaces and punctuation. The Commission order has to be in 12 brick lots.

There is available space for bricks to be installed at Shipyard Park (around the flag pole, wharf panel, and one more bench) and at Ned's Point (around the Pavilion, lighthouse panel, and one bench). Applications are also available at Town Hall. You will be notified when your brick is situated.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You dislike waiting for promises to be fulfilled and for commitments to be kept, but resist your headstrong tendency to push things along. Your patience will be rewarded.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Expect continuing opposition to your plans from die-hard detractors. However, your determination to see things through will carry the day. A Pisces has romantic ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might be too close to a troublesome workplace situation to deal with it successfully. Step away in order to get a better perspective. A solution soon becomes obvious.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might suspect that someone you trust has misled you on an important matter, but a more balanced view of things reveals a misunderstanding to be the culprit.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The Big Cat's animal magnetism has rarely been stronger. You can either just bask in all that admiration or use it to your advantage, especially in the workplace.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone who previously balked at cooperating with you on a project suddenly has a change of heart. Accept both help and advice with grace.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Some hazy issues still need to be cleared up before you can move on with your new plans. A friend from the past reaches out to re-establish old ties.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Continued positive fall-out follows that risky workplace decision you made some time ago. Your payoff will soon prove to be more substantial than you expected.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A personal relationship continues to be affected by a recent unexpected turn of events. Things need to work themselves out without finger-pointing.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It's a wonderful week for all you capricious Goats to kick up your heels with friends or family members in some well-earned fun and frivolity.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Caution is advised before making a financial commitment to someone you don't really know. There are better ways to build friendships than with risky fiscal dealings.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Travel plans continue to be favored. A change of scenery brings new opportunities, both personally and professionally. Be open to the possibilities.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a strong sense of loyalty that shows itself best in your relationships with family and friends.

New Summer Programs at the MNHM

Join us on Wednesday afternoons from 1:00 - 4:00 pm this summer for nature programs with the Marion Natural History Museum. The cost for each program is $24 for members, $30 for non-members.

July 20: Exploring Fresh Water Ecosystems at Washburn Park. We'll be exploring vernal pools, woods and bogs. We'll spend the afternoon looking at plants and soils, netting amphibians and fish, and looking for birds and signs of other types of wildlife.

July 27: Introduction to Our Coastal Birds. A naturalist with MA Fish and Wildlife will be giving us a presentation on shore birds of our area. We will be able to hear first-hand from one of the naturalists how they've been helping to improve the nesting habitat for the Roseate Terns of our area. Then we will be taking a trip to Bird Island, courtesy of Marion Harbormaster's office and lead naturalist, Carolyn Mostello.

August 3: Summer Star Lab. Explore summer constellations with the Museum's Star Lab portable planetarium. We will have the opportunity to work with the Star Lab instructor to learn to identify some of the features of our nighttime summer skies.

August 10: Children's Nature Journaling Workshop. Learn the art of observation with Artist and Naturalist Tricia Cassidy. This is a great way to introduce the students to the world of journaling. We will make a small sketchbook and then go outside to learn different ways to observe and draw from nature.

August 17: Making Artwork from Nature. During this program, we'll collect interesting items during our hike around town and then use them to create our own masterpieces here at the museum.

These programs are designed to be small groups, and registration is limited to 15 children per session. To register for any of these programs, please go to www.marionmuseum.org, fill out the registration and submit with payment. Please call the museum if you have any questions at 508-748-2098, and please visit the museum during our open hours this summer.

looking for Foundation members to take it through the next decade and beyond, helping to administer the Lighthouse Fund, which provides grants to the Tri-Town school community each year. The Lighthouse Fund is an endowed fund of the Old Rochester Educational Foundation Inc. which means that it is a permanent source of funding for the schools. Only the return on the investment will be awarded, while the remaining money grows for the future.

To date, more than 25 grants have been awarded through the Tri-Town Education Foundation to outstanding educators in the district, most recently for the ORR cross-curriculum "Cub Reporter" program, the Sippican School's "Playing with MakerSpaces: in the Library" and ORR's "Dreamfar High School Marathon." Grants totaled $3,949.60 for 2015.

The Foundation is looking for new members, including a Chairman and Treasurer, to help continue the tradition and expand the Lighthouse Fund for Future Generations. Grant experience would be a huge plus.

multisensory reading instruction that is highly successful and geared to the specific reading needs of each child.

This 60-hour course prepares its participants for the Associate Level at the Orton-Gillingham Academy (ortonacademy.org). Dawn Nieman, a Fellow at the Academy, who has been approved and licensed by the Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators to teach the Associates Level, will teach the course. She will provide this rigorous course during eight sessions this fall: August 15-20; and on October 15 and 16.

During this training, in addition to learning about dyslexia and reading disorders, participants will learn the following fundamental elements of the Orton-Gillingham approach: an introduction to phonology; handwriting instruction; basic phonics; morphology and words derived from Anglo-Saxon, Latin, and Greek; strategies for multi-sensory instruction; formal and informal testing and how to use that information for tutorials; Orton-Gillingham lesson planning; and writing and grammar skills.

Once participants have successfully completed this course, they may then begin working on a practicum by making arrangements with the instructor. This practicum will take place throughout the school year and prepare trainees to apply to the Academy of Orton-Gillingham at the Associate level.

Bob to help us estimate future storms to better protect Mattapoisett residents and property from future flooding.

If you remember Hurricane Bob and its flood waters, you can help us by sending:

- A picture of the exact location where you remember flooding in Mattapoisett. The library staff can scan your photos for you.
- The closest street address and an estimate in feet and inches of the highest level of flood water for that location – the best you can recollect.
- A story or recollection about how you weathered that storm or another one. Did you evacuate? Was there damage to your home and/or property or your neighbor's?
- Your name and the best way to contact you [this is optional] if we can ask you for more details at a later date.

If you have pictures from other extreme weather events (floods, snow storms, hurricanes, etc.) or stories you would like to share, we'd be interested in seeing and hearing about those as well.

You can send all the information by email to spizzolo@sailsinc.org or mail it to Mattapoisett Free Public Library, Attn: Susan Pizzolato, P.O. Box 475, Mattapoisett, MA 02739. Or, you can contact Melody Pacheco in the Selectmen's Office, Memorial Town Hall. You can also tweet messages and images to #mattapoisettstorms.

Rochester Historic Commission Seeks New Members

Are you a closet history geek? Were you riveted to the miniseries Patriot? Do ancestry shows like 'Who Do You Think You Are' and the PBS series fascinate you? If you answered yes to any or all of these questions, you might be a prime candidate to join the Rochester Historic Commission.

This Town Committee meets once a month, currently on the first Monday, at the Police Station Meeting Room on Dexter Lane. A meeting date change is planned for the future to return us to the Town Hall where our archives are stored. Due to recent resignations, we currently have openings for two members. Our agenda can be as varied as viewing building plans for developments (to ensure no historic structures are at risk), to updating the MCRIS list of historic properties and areas in Rochester or presenting programs at Rochester Memorial School. And all our meetings include a sharing of any interesting things our members have discovered in the last month.

Rochester has an incredible history for a small town, and it is fascinating to maintain its legacy and find new information to add. If you are interested in joining us, please drop a letter of intent to the Selectmen.

Seventh Annual Brad Barrows Bike Run

The seventh annual Brad Barrows bike run will be held on September 17. The event will start at 12:30 pm at The Stowaway Pub, 35 County Road, Mattapoissett. The rain date will be September 18. The ride raises money for Tri-Town youth sports, a cause that was near and dear to Brad's heart. Anyone interested in participating in the run should contact any of the people listed below.

Last September, the ride generated funds for the Old Rochester Regional Swim Team ($400), the Carl Collyer scholarship fund for the Mattapoissett Community Sailing Association ($400) and the Mattapoissett Y ($300). In addition, this year, we have $1400 available for coaches or parents to request financial help for individual athletes
